

It's All Okay

Luke 18:9-14

There's a tree outside my window. Been there about a hundred years.
It's seen a lot of stormy nights, a lot of laughter, a lot of tears.
Was a time back when it would bow and bend as a sapling in a gentle breeze, when it found the need as a tiny seed to cover the earth with its leaves.

Refrain: And we're growin' on our way, and it's all okay.
We do our best to pass each test we face from day to day.
Some stand and others fall. Some learn to heed the call.
But to our God each path that's trod is a path that's trod by all.

And so we curse the darkness and the sinners with their sins who walk along behind us on roads were we have been.
We may stand up tall to be seen by all when it's time for us to pray.
Those who've gone before us watch and smile,
cause even that's okay. Refrain

The product is unfinished but the process is divine.
We search the sky for miracles when it's we who are the sign of God's eternal glory with gentle patience blessed.
So don't lose your nerve, God'll use a curve
when it's time to grade our tests. Refrain

It's good to strive for greatness, to reach out for the stars.
God put us here to learn that fear is nothing more than ours.
The more we come to understand the more we find to learn.
So be gentle with each other friends,
we each will get our turn. Refrain
