

My Soul Proclaims You, Lord

Luke 1:47-55

My soul proclaims You, Lord,
The greatness of You Lord.
And in You, Lord, how my Spirit rejoices,
for You have looked down with favor on me
who is the lowliest one of your servants.
For all generations blessed ever I'll be.

And I will Praise You, Lord,
The greatness of You, Lord.
You, the Almighty, have treated me greatly,
And ever hallowed shall your name be.
You have shown mercy on all those who fear You.
For all generations blessed ever You'll be.

And I will praise You Lord,
The greatness of You, Lord.
And with the strength of your arm You have scattered
All the proud ones with hearts of conceit.
And from their thrones You have cast down the mighty,
Lifting the lowly up to sit at your feet.

And I will praise You, Lord,
The greatness of You Lord.
And You have filled the hungry with good good things.
The wealthy ones are sent empty away.
Your servant Israel, now You have rescued,
Remembering well the vow of mercy You gave
To Abraham, your son,
His children every one.
