

Last Chance, Humanity

Genesis 9:8-17

We used to live in a Garden of Eden back in another time.

A man named Adam and a woman named Eve, even,
livin' together right out in the park,
free as a lark,
getting' along just fine.

Look now humanity at where we are today, say,
that was the big one that got away!

Then to the Promised Land He led us,
leavin' our slavery behind.

lots of milk and honey,
didn't need much money, no.

The Ten Commandments should 'a gave us a hint,
somehow they didn't.

We're back in the same old grind!

Look now humanity at where we are today, say,
that was the big one that got away.

Now there was sent to us a Savior
to show us we don't have to die.

Emmanuel, well, He showed us how to do it.

lovin' your neighbor all over the place,
hard to embrace,

but certainly worth a try!

Last chance humanity, the choice is our today, say
don't let this one get away.

This time, this time, this time by God!

This time we're gonna do it right!
