

Miracles Shine

The spark of recognition in a passing stranger's eye, gazing at the vastness of an endless starry sky, sharing in the waves eternal, crashing to the shore, the scent of flowers sending recognition to your core,

Refrain: Miracles shine, around us everywhere, Watch for the signs and you will find your share.
Divinity is flowing through us all...heaven's call.

A forest standing motionless expectant of a storm, the grace that seems to radiate beyond the dancer's form, the sound of chirping crickets and the crashing waterfall, the echoes deep within you from a place you can't recall. Refrain

The hypnotic changing colors of a sunsets distant clouds, the laughter of a playground and the energy of crowds, the breeze that sweeps across your face and lifts you in its flight, the dancing dust above your bed caught by the morning light. Refrain

And once the oneness of creation takes you to its heart and you're aware of that of which all people are a part, the universe within you, born of boundless energy, then you believe how dreams you weave will someday come to be as... Refrain

Miracles shine!
