

Shaken

(Original Lyrics)

John 1:1-18

And from a place outside of space, He shook the veil of nothingness, till from its folds the gift of light was scattered 'cross the starless night.
And then from where He stood apart, He shook the embers of his heart that showered forth eternal sparks, a soul for me, a soul for you, fed by a flame forever new.

Sing praise to Him who shapes the whole
and shakes us to our very souls, lest slumbering within his grace we're never stirred to seek his face.

And from a place outside of earth, He sent to us by humble birth, a power that would shake the stars and make their light forever ours.
Again from where He stood apart He watched us as we did our part; and at the cross He shook the earth to symbolize our own rebirth that we might realize our worth.

Sing praise to Him, who shapes the whole
and shakes us to our very souls lest slumbering in within his grace we're never stirred to seek his face.

And since the stone was rolled away, the powers of darkness put at bay, we are not who we were before,
for we've been shaken to the core.
We are not who we were before,
for we've been shaken evermore.
