

The Devil Never Rests

Matthew 4:1-11

We don't like to talk about him. We block him from our minds.
He's alright for the movies if you like the scary kind.
Just look in any newspaper he's there between the lines.
Rest assured the devil never rests.

Operating under cover his disguise is every where,
working best with people, who don't believe he's there.
He's the lesser of two evils, the exception to the rule,
the unforeseen result that turns a genius to fool.
And when you look the other way He'll use you as his tool.

Across the earth he strides, his demons by his side.
He knows you better than you know yourself.
And no one will be spared. Why he has even dared to come before the Son of God Himself... Oh no!

Know the opposition. He's not some kind of elf.
There's no safe compromise, don't keep your soul up on a shelf.
The miseries of mankind Man didn't think up by himself.
Rest assured the devil never rests.

The power to repel him requires a mighty force.
And Jesus Christ assured us that the scriptures are its source.
And He Alone can keep you goin' on a steady course.

Across the earth he strides his demons by his side.
He knows you better than you know yourself.
And no one will be spared. Why he has even dared
to come before the Son of God Himself.... Oh no!

I'm never gonna, never gonna let,
Let the devil make a fool of me.
