

The World That the Child Sees

Matthew 19:13-15

In the world that the child sees there are wonders to behold, and the realm of possibility, a story to be told.

There is always one more turn with another new surprise.

There are shouters, laughs, running afters,
farther than the skies.

There is ample reason to rejoice in another rising sun with a brand new adventure, just waiting there to be begun.

As you take their hand in yours, there is happiness that you can share, a fragile heart for nurturing that God has placed into your care.

Little lives that you embrace are a blessing from the Lord, who gathered them up in his arms lest they should be ignored.

And a special grace belongs to the ones who are so blessed as to have the opportunity to bring them happiness.

©2015 by Tom DeFrange

