

Who Will Care for God's Children?

Matthew 25:45

Who will care for God's children while He is away?
It may be a while till the Judgment day.
He left us this message in bible and stone
So we'd know how to live while we're here on our own.

A dragon is running and many it kills with poisonous needles and bottles and pills.
Those who draw the sword from apathy's stone
soon find that a few cannot lift it alone.

Who will care for God's children while He is away?
It may be a while till the Judgment day.
He left us this message in bible and stone
so we'd know how to act while we're here on our own.

Sure the cries of the hungry in faraway lands
Have not reached our ears. We are washing our pans of yesterday's dinner we just cannot eat.
And a family goes hungry a block down the street.

Who will care for God's children while He is away?
It may be a while till the Judgment day.
He left us this message in bible and stone
so we'd know what to do while we're here on our own.

Those who wait for their death in an unhappy trance
whose spirits have died many years in advance,
from oppression and loneliness, loss of self-worth.
Though we can't create life we can still create birth.

For the aged, the imprisoned, the crippled, the blind,
those lacking in body, those lacking in mind,
those lacking in spirit, those lacking in love,
the answer has already come from above.

Who will care for God's children while He is away?
It may be a while till the Judgment day.
He left us this message in bible and stone.
Care for my children. Care for my children.
Care for my children...as you would your own.
