

Measure of a Man

You say I'm changing, that it's all for the best,
And one day you'll see me like you do all the rest.
Who have become like you and they know where they stand
It's all in the prophecy of the way that you measure a man.

Your way is a struggle to the head of the line;
But no need to worry 'cause you're doing just fine.
Just trust in your own self and you'll leave them behind.
Your fate's in your hands now. I can see all of the signs.

Refrain: You say that it's possible to do anything.

You say that you trust Him, but I know it's just you by the fruit that you bring..

It's not His song that you sing.

It's not His song that you sing.

It's not His song that you sing.

You say you're growing, but you don't see the truth.
There's no point in knowing if you're missing the root.
Our worth is not measured by the things that we do,
but by our existence that is all, it's finished, it's through. Refrain

You say I'm changing; that it's all for the best,
And one day you'll see me like you do all the rest
Who have become like you and they know where they stand
It's all in the prophecy of the way that you measure a man.
It's all in the prophecy of the way that you measure a man.
