

Mary Knows

Mary knows what a mother knows to bring a child into this earth;
all the joy and pain that goes along with giving birth.

And Mary knows what a mother knows
to teach a boy to be a man;
skinned up knees and runny noses.

A mother always does what she can.

And Mary knows what a mother knows
to watch a boy grow straight and strong;
all the pride a mother feels
to see how he come a long, long, way now.

And Mary knows what a mother knows
to lose a loving child;
held him in her arms so tight on Calvary Hill while her thoughts ran wild.

Sad, sad woman take comfort now should one of your children die.

Cause Jesus rose and now Mary knows there's more to death than meets the eye.
