

Age of Non-Thinkers

John 8:32

Refrain: Welcome, my friends to the age of non-thinkers.
If you're self-directed you shouldn't have applied.
We're looking for people who delegate thinking to others regarded as more qualified.

We've gathered together at no inconvenience authorities who are especially smart, to guide you and mold you, impressively hold you within prescribed guidelines of "state-of-the-art."
Your diet, your clothing and raising your children can all be dictated with no thought from you.
We'll repair all the items we told you you needed.
If you want to try it, we'll sell you the glue! Refrain

For your problem solving we'll get you an analyst.
There's no need to strain yourself using your mind.
And for your sick body we'll get you a specialist to handle the section to which he's assigned.
No need to exert yourself out on the ball field.
The pros on the TV will certainly do.
There's no need to strain your eyes reading the paper.
We'll tell you the news and interpret it too. Refrain

For your spiritual needs there's a nice congregation, just drop in your money. The organ will sound.
We'll tell you the words you should use when your praying and should you forget them they're all written down.
Our armchair society needs a religion to hand us salvation the easiest way.
Saying, "Thanks to the Savior we've all been promoted.
Just stay out of trouble and have a nice day!" Refrain
